

Current security situation in the KölnKongress objects

With a view to the international and national security situation at events we are constantly in a dialogue with our organizers and the security authorities and are adapting the security concepts of our events to the current situation. We reserve the right to increase the deployment of security personnel and to conduct control measures, as a result of which there could be longer waiting times in connection with the admission controls. The intensity of the control measures is based on discussions held at short notice with the security authorities and the respective organizers. In order not to interfere with the work of the security authorities, we request your understanding that we are unable to make statements about actual measures which are being conducted in connection with events in the rooms of the CologneKongress premises.
